

The announcement was made by Fidesz's faction leader, who said that they had received numerous proposals on the draft law and would therefore continue the debate in the fall. Parliament was originally supposed to vote on the bill next Wednesday.

---

Forrás