

Another important insight from the annual report of the research institute at Oxford University is that the already low level of trust in public media in Hungary has fallen sharply over the past year.

---

Forrás