

If the Orbán administration is able to have Rogán removed from the sanctions list quickly, it will be a stronger political message than the one the Biden administration wanted to send with the sanctioning itself. But if Rogán's name remains on the list for a long time, it will make talking about an improvement in US-Hungarian relations difficult. An analysis.

---

Forrás