

Two women whose suffering reflects the crisis in the Hungarian healthcare system were treated at the clinics of Semmelweis University. The mistreatment is also common in other hospitals, and the government is aware of it, but has not taken any meaningful action. Direkt36's healthcare investigation continues.

---

Forrás